THE FESTIVAL

What is Rann Utsav

Every winter, the Great Rann of Kutch dries into a flat white crust of salt that runs unbroken to the horizon — and Gujarat builds a city of tents on the edge of it. By day the Rann is blinding white and silent; at sunset it turns rose and gold, and on full-moon nights it glows silver-blue as if lit from underneath.

The Tent City is a full resort — tents, restaurants, a craft bazaar and a nightly stage of Kutchi folk music, Garba and puppetry, all on a fixed daily programme you simply follow.

WHERE YOU STAY

The Tent City, Dhordo

Every tent has an attached western bathroom, hot water, a front porch and daily housekeeping.

Tents are laid out in lettered clusters around a central lawn, with dining halls, the craft bazaar and the cultural stage at the heart of the camp. Every category shares the same footprint of care — an attached bathroom, daily housekeeping, a front porch — and differs in size, air conditioning and how close it sits to the action.

AROUND THE TENT CITY

Bonfire evenings, multi-cuisine dining halls and a rejuvenation centre — all a short walk from your tent. See the next two pages for every accommodation category, each shown with real photos of the room.

TENT CATEGORIES

The four tent categories

Prices per person, per night, on double occupancy.

Super Premium

FROM ₹10,300

The best-placed rows in camp — closest to the shuttle point and cultural arena, with the fullest amenity list short of a suite.

Premium

FROM ₹9,300

A larger tent, a double bed in luxury linen and a generous private porch — the step up couples notice most.

Deluxe AC Swiss

FROM ₹8,300

Air-conditioned, better furnished, with a proper sitting corner — the category most guests actually book.

Non-AC Swiss

FROM ₹6,300

The tent behind every “from ₹6,300” headline — twin beds, attached bath, fan and cooler rather than AC.

All categories include an attached western bathroom, hot water, a private front porch and daily housekeeping. Super Premium is Rann Utsav's newest tier for 2026–27 — shown here from its one available shoot, with a dedicated room-by-room set scheduled.
